"Snow Angel"

New Hampton School

Director of Performing Arts Joe Sampson directs:

The school's fall play, "Snow Angel" by David Lindsay-Abaire.

McEvoy Theater, Moore Center
Dr. Child's Road

The all-student production will be open to the public on November 11, 2017 at 7:30pm.
Suggested donation is $15.00/adult, $10.00/seniors & students. All New Hampton residents admitted free with valid ID.

It's winter and it's snowing as members of Mrs. Samson's English class listen to the radio and get ready for school. They are announcing school closings for the day and as soon as the kids hear "Deerpoin" they are on their way to a day of fun in the snow. What they're not expecting is Eva, a mysterious girl who steps from a snowbank and into their lives. Eva helps the kids to find new ways to understand themselves. "I am looking forward to this fall play because it has been a lot of work and fun to create this show," says Mairead Ryan of Ashland, NH. "We have built a strong community of talented, funny, and creative actors and we've made something really special in the process."

New Hampton School would love to have more residents join them on Saturday night!
