CENTRAL STREET BRIDGE PROJECT UPDATE

To our surprise steel began to arrive today, a week early! Notice came at 7am this morning that 4 girders were about to arrive on site from Portland Maine, followed by trailers delivering the large crane need to erect the steel. Four tractor trailers arrived this morning at approximately 7:50 am escorted by four NH State Troopers and two flag trucks. The 4 steel girders were successfully delivered to the site with very few delays for the traveling public. Five more tractor trailer loads are expected today with the crane. We have been told that the next 4 girders may possibly be delivered on Friday or Monday. Bristol’s 4 girders are expected the end of the week.

The contractors were asked to provide 24 hours notice, but the contractor did not receive notice himself until 6am this morning. We will try our best to obtain the delivery schedule and notify you as soon as possible.

Attached is a picture of the one of the girders on a trailer on Main Street this morning.

Also officials from Fairpoint, the engineers, contractor and town representatives met on site in Bristol this morning to discuss the relocation of the telephone lines on the new poles. The meeting was to address the needed height of the lines to avoid having the lines obstruct the view from the sidewalk on the south side of the bridge as you look down river.
